Daniele Gatti: “My first intention, based on enthusiasm, was to give a prize. But the study has a strong predecessor by P. Arestov [Fide World Cup 2017, 2nd Prize]. The idea is the same: stalemate avoidance of the black King on three different squares thanks to three Rook promotions. However, the matrix, the maneuvers and the thematic stalemate positions are different enough to mark this study as original, at least in its expression if not in its idea. However, considering the quality of the predecessor, I cannot give a higher ranking.”

Unfortunately the second part (moving backwards) of the systematic manoeuvre does not work due to 12. Qe5+!.

The correction rectifies this. However, after 13... Qf8 at the end, White draws with 14. Rb8 as well as 14. Rc7. That is, the pendulum swings forth and back only once, I could not find a correction with 14. Rb8 as the only drawing move.
